Thence he came to the United States, where to shake handwith the Apostle of l'emperance and receive his model with a pledge of total abstinence was the highest ambition of every worthy son and daughter of the Emeral Isle. His warm recention and gratifying success in this country are well remembered. Through all this Herculean labour he never amassed a cent for himself, but was constantly in a state of personal porecty. When he began his good work his brother was the proprietor of a large dis tillety. He supported Theobald until his wonderful success had ruined the distillery, and reduced the owner to bankruptcy. To meet the wants of the good Samaritan, the British government settled an annuity of £300 upon him, which sum was just sufficient to pay the premium upon an insurance policy held by his creditors as security for their claims.
